Blockchain Mobile Financial Services

The BullionBlock technology will enable global money transfers to be a lot quicker and cheaper than what is currently on offer in the market today, with lower error rates and lower vulnerability to cyber threats.

The BULLIONBLOCK platform moves money directly between people and businesses as easily as email, providing more access and autonomy for individuals over their money, lower costs for money transfers and increased revenue for businesses.

As a unifying layer between all payments and currencies, the BULLIONBLOCK ecosystem can link siloed financial institutions and services and reduce the friction that contributes to higher fees. This interoperability substantially lowers global remittance costs by making transactions that cross national boundaries, much more efficient.

BULLIONBLOCK is an effective Payment Gateway that is easy to use, fast, low cost and accessible to everyone worldwide from any device.

The BULLIONBLOCK platform can be used for B2B (business-to-business) payments by small and medium-sized (SME) businesses processing local and/or international financial transactions.

Also, BULLIONBLOCK benefits B2E (business-to-employee) and G2C (government-to-consumer) by reducing remittance fees, payroll costs, and error rates.

Banking Without Banks

Through its powerful, real-time, Cloud Based platform, its extensive experience within the Crypto world, the use of QR Payment and adoption of Peer-to-Peer, the BullionBlock CashCrossBorders platform can bring the Blockchain vision to life outside of the requirement for traditional payment schemes.

Traditional banking infrastructure was not designed to manage the conversion of cryptocurrencies. Therefore, there was a clear market opportunity for a fintech company with the back-end technology to create such an offering.
